THERE IS SOMETHING STRANGE ABOUT THE FORENSICS HERE, MULDER.

STRANGE HOW?

CAUSE OF DEATH IS LISTED AS A SELF-INFLICTED GUNSHOT, BUT THERE ARE NO POWDER BURNS OR BRUISING, AND THERE ARE GROOVED ABRASIONS OUTSIDE THE WOUND.

OUTSIDE? WHAT DO YOU MEAN?

ALMOST AS IF SOMETHING EXITED HIS HEAD, NOT ENTERED IT.

YOU NEED TO AUTOPSY THAT BODY, SCULLY.

I CAN'T.

WHY NOT?

IT'S ALREADY BEEN CREMATED. A MISTAKE, THEY SAID.

IT'S NOT

THE STORM FRONT

OUT THIS MONTH!

One issue not to be missed this December is EX MACHINA #40. Join Mayor Mitchell Hundred in his search for the perfect creative team to bring his first term in office to life as a graphic novel memoir. Brian K. Vaughan and Tony Harris consistently mix politics and superheroes month-in and month-out with a delivery all their own, so it's hard to imagine any other creative team stepping in their shoes to do them justice, but WildStorm fans will definitely be pleased with the results!

Finally, THE WINTER MEN WINTER SPECIAL reaches fans at the end of this year and it's an aptly titled comic for obvious and not-so-obvious reasons. Obviously, it ties the title of the book with the season it appears in stores. What may not be so obvious is just how special this title really is to those who've missed it. Brett Lewis has scripted a compelling, character-driven work that explores a post-Cold War Moscow with a touch of superheroes and crime thrown in for good measure. It's the kind of complex book that not only challenges the reader, but also rewards them through Lewis's deft dialogue and John Paul Leon's stark, chiaroscuro style.

Not only does John's work perfectly complement the story, it also propels the story forward as each line delivers a wealth of nuanced information. The mood of each character, including the city, is evident at first glance and a second look only brings you that much closer to Kris Kalenov, an ex-Soviet rocket soldier, who's on the trail of a little girl as the threads of a much larger power structure finally reveal themselves in this extra-sized winter special.

Hope everyone stays warm and enjoys the Thanksgiving season this November!
